YOUNG MAN KILLED BY LIGHT ENGINE AT KATO

Was Laying on N. Y. C. R. R. Tracks at Kato; Badly Mangled

COMPANION ESCAPED

Larry E. McCloskey, a well-known young man of Snow Shoe employed as a miner in the bituminous mines at Kato, was instantly killed on Monday at 1 A. M. when mangled beneath the wheels of a New York Central railroad locomotive, running "light." A companion escaped injury.

Both young men had been drinking, it is reported, and were intoxicated. McCloskey's right hand was severed, his skull fractured, many bones broken and his body cut and bruised, the engine having been running at good speed.

The deceased was about 27 years old and was a son of Mitchell and Catherine McCloskey, of Snow Shoe, who survive, together with his young widow and two sons, Calvin and Edward; 8 brothers: Joseph, of Milton; Harvey, Howard, William, Lloyd, Thomas, Charles and Albert, all of Snow Shoe and nearby; and 3 sisters, Verdi, Mayme and Nellie, at home.

Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon and burial made in Snow Shoe cemetery.

LOGANS ANNUAL PICNIC

Plans Completed for Celebrating Fourth at Hecla.

Plans have been completed for the annual picnic of the Logan Fire company to be held at Hecla Park on the Fourth of July. The programs are to be distributed the latter part of next week and provide for plenty of healthful, clean amusement for all.

There will be two Centre County league baseball games. The Odd Fellows band will be in attendance and there will be dancing afternoon and evening to a popular orchestra. In addition there will be opportunities to obtain plenty to eat and cool drinks. The usual opportunity to enjoy canoeing on the lake will be available.

The Logans have purchased a squad wagon and hope to realize sufficient funds from the picnic to pay for it. The squad wagon will enable them to more expeditiously continue their efficient work in fighting fires and their picnic, having as its primary object the raising of funds to complete the purchase of the wagon, deserves the whole hearted support of the citizens of the surrounding country. However, this is not the only reason that there should be a large attendance at Hecla Park July fourth, for there will be lots doing all day for everyone and it will make a delightful way to celebrate Independance Day.

A grand street parade will take place on Tuesday evening, July third.

Injured Unloading Piano.

Lewis Hipple, of Milesburg, local section foreman for the P. R. R., was very painfully injured on the side and back on last Thursday afternoon while assisting in unloading a piano at the Pennsy freight station. Mr. Hipple had the piano part way out of a box car when the string of cars was unexpectedly bumped by the local shifting engine and he was caught between the frame of the box car door and the piano. While able to walk about, he has been unable to work.

Men Strike, Builder Got Others.

On account of a little difference and alleged neglect in work, the men employed by J. O. Heverly in getting ready for his new building at the corner of High and Allegheny streets, quit work on Wednesday afternoon. The men, it is said, claimed they should have more money or they would strike. Mr. Heverly left them strike and got other men to work, who started this morning.

Truck and Ford Collided.

The auto truck of Samuel Vonada, of Bellefonte, driven by Donald Spicer, and a Ford touring car of Harry Leathers, of near Curtin, mixed "pleasure and business" at the intersection of roads in Bush Addition, near the Bliss Alkey home on Monday morning. Both cars were damaged but nobody injured.

Chautauqua Arrangements.

Mrs. Florence B. Sutherland, first advance agent of the Chautauqua, which will come to Bellefonte this summer for the period July 21—26, will come tomorrow and a meeting of the guarantors will be held to make arrangements.

A. L. & S. CO. RE-ARRANGEMENT

Change Will Mean Moving of Some Officials.

Irving Warner, who came to Bellefonte last year from Wilmington, Del., to become general manager of the American Lime & Stone Co. plant here, in the deal in which the local company and the Warner interests were associated under an option plan, expects to return to Wilmington this fall, possibly about the middle of September. He will be succeeded here by W. C. Philips, of Washington, D. C., who has been general manager of the National Lime Asso. Mr. Philips will come to Bellefonte about July 1, but will not become general manager at once, his duties to start in about 2 months after he has become familiar with the local work.

Mr. Warner will be in charge of construction and engineering for both the Warner and American Lime & Stone Co. interests, after returning to Wilmington. In a business capacity he will have occasion to visit Bellefonte at intervals. During the short time he has been located here, he has made some staunch friends by his crisp but progressive business attitude.

John Curtin will become sales office manager in Bellefonte, C. B. Nicholson being transferred to Pittsburgh, where he will be sales manager of the Western District, which territory is one of the most promising business fields of the associated lime companies.

These re-adjustments are not expected to make any change in the business of the company locally so far as employment of men or payroll is concerned. Mr. Warner said present indications are that the same number of men will remain at work, but new men are not especially needed as the present force and operation seem to be working very well.

Relative to the Warner interests exercising rights of the option, understood to be a 5-year proposition on a sliding scale, Mr. Warner refused flatly to give any information, other than to say there is nothing of interest to report now. Pressed for something further he replied, "I don't care to discuss that matter now as there is nothing new to it."

CAMP AT SPRUCE CREEK

Camp A. G. Morris for Boys in Charge of S. S. Aplin.

The Y. M. C. A. boys' summer camp, known as Camp A. G. Morris, will be held at Spruce Creek, Huntingdon County, June 29 to July 20, and will be in charge of General Secretary S. S. Aplin.

The registration blanks have been prepared and many of them distributed. Some of the blanks have been signed and are on file, indicating a good attendance at the camp. Boy members of the Y. M. C. A. get special "Y" rates of $3.50 per week and non-members are rated at $5 per week. The rates include eats and everything.

Each camper, however, should take along 2 blankets, 1 pillow, pajamas, raincoat, swimming suit or trunks, gym suit and shoes, 2 pairs stockings, sweater, hiking shoes, 2 towels, soap, handkerchiefs, comb, toothpaste, brush, stationery, stamps, Bible or testament. Every article should be marked. Fishing tackle, baseball goods, camera, etc., any article desired, may be added to personal equipment.

The beautiful site of the Tri-County and State Sunday School Asso. has been secured for use during this second annual camp. The mess hall is 36x60 feet and there is a well equipped kitchen. Both are very essential to a delightful camp time. E. E. Beals is the cook. Twenty 14x14 khaki wall tents with board floors, iron cots and cotton pads are part of the camp facilities. There is a sanitary water system, spring water being piped onto the grounds.

Baseball, tennis and volley courts give apportunity for sports galore and safe swimming is provided by erection of a temporary dam on the property.

Cars Collided on Bridge.

A Ford sedan, owned and driven by Charles Eckenroth, of Unionville, and a truck, owned by a Mr. Confer, of near Unionville, were slightly damaged in a collision on the big bridge, which spans the Bald Eagle creek at Milesburg, on Sunday morning. It was a very exciting minute when the cars came together, but the drivers had them so near to being stopped that only a fender was bent and some other slight damage done to the sedan, while the truck was even less damaged.

Correct Drill Notice.

Members of Troop B will drill 3 times each week—Monday and Thursday evenings and Sunday afternoon—in preparation for the encampment at Mt. Gretna, beginning July 7 and continuing for 2 weeks.

INDICATIONS POINT TO SEPARATE PRISONS

Rockview May Become Institution in Itself.

PERMANENT BUILDINGS

Information from Harrisburg indicates Governor Pinchot is in favor of three separate state prisons:

Maintaining the one at Pittsburgh as the Western penitentiary, unhampered by branch work.

Creating a Central district with Rockview prison as the Central penitentiary.

Selecting a new site and erecting a prison in keeping with the requirements of the Eastern district, to replace the Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia.

So much money has been invested in permanent buildings and permanent work at Rockview that it would not be feasible to abandon it and make a waste of what has already been done. There are a number of features worked out at Rockview in prison welfare work especially that makes the continuance of the prison essential.

Governor Pinchot is not alone in his idea of having three districts and three prisons. There are many who agree that the Rockview institution should be conducted as a separate prison and should not be kept as a burden on the Pittsburgh institution, the difference between the prisons being one of the big factors in considering the operation of the institution.

NEW CAR WRECKED

Rammed by Big Car at Street Intersection in Bellefonte.

Robert Hilliard, a well-known young man of Coleville, was the victim of what has been termed a very unnecessary accident on Sunday morning—Hilliard not being seriously hurt, but his new Ford car practically wrecked by an alleged speeder.

Hilliard had purchased his car, a Ford runabout, several weeks ago and was careful in handling it. He was driving toward Bishop St. and was going at a moderate speed, according to eye witnesses, when the other car, a big Mitchell, came whirling in from Bishop St. and swung about the "Silent Policeman" at the intersection so quickly that it got beyond control and rammed the side of the Ford before the driver, said to be a Mr. Mitchell from Lower Nittany valley, could straighten out in his course.

The impact caught the Ford about the middle of the right fender and hurled it over onto the pavement in front of the McClure dwelling property, where it was stopped just as it was nosing against the fence. The front of the car was considerably damaged, the front wheels smashed, and the right fender ruined. The car was towed to the Beatty garage for repairs.

Will Get Bridge.

The supervisors of Boggs township and the Commissioners have announced that they will accept bids until June 14, when they will be opened, for moving the bridge at Rock, over Spring creek, to Snow Shoe Intersection, to span Bald Eagle creek and give proper means of getting to and from the properties on the south side of the creek. The Mason's club house and the property of John Harnish, both affected by the bridge, have been greatly improved and the mountain slope is becoming attractive to quite a number of persons.

Boy Scout Festival.

Tuesday evening next is the time for the Boy Scout festival in front of the High School building. The public is asked to be good to itself and be on hand. The Odd Fellows' band will give a concert. There will be dancing on the pavement, specially prepared for the occasion, and a side-show, which is bound to make a hit. Ice cream, cakes, soft drinks for sale. The proceeds will help finance the Scout Camp, July 23 to Aug. 4.

More Quarantines.

Quarantines are being tacked on doors of homes again after a lapse of some time. In one instance, there are two quarantines up for the same family, the Edward Houser home on Pine street being quarantined for mumps and chicken pox. John Walker and Harry Keeler homes are quarantined for mumps and the Edward Gehret home for chicken pox. Most of the quarantines were placed during the week-end.

Go to the Boy Scout festival Tuesday evening.

SIX PRISONERS ESCAPED AT ONCE FROM ROCKVIEW

Convicts Cut Two Bars and Wire Enclosure.

NEW STEWARD IS HERE

Six prisoners at the New Western penitentiary at Rockview escaped before daylight on Tuesday morning after sawing two bars of the dining room, used as a dormitory and cutting the high enclosure wires with plyers. How the tools were obtained is not known. One guard was on duty, as is customary, and he was making his usual rounds, evidently being at one part of the enclosure while the prisoners rushed to freedom under cover of darkness. It has been rumored that the six escaped as result of a plan for a wholesale delivery, but if such is true it could not be substantiated at Rockview, the report from there saying no reason for the prisoners' motive had been learned and the prisoners have been quiet not giving out any information.

Apparently, the prisoners worked from about 9 o'clock on Sunday night until 3 o'clock or near that time on Monday morning, when they succeeded in cutting the second bar and which made it possible for them to get out of the cell house. Cutting of the wire of the enclosure was apparently an easy matter.

Word has been sent abroad over the country and it is not thought the prisoners will enjoy their freedom for any great length of time. All the men were white and attired in the usual prison working garb when they left Rockview but, of course, this garb might easily be changed when other clothes were secured. Only one was from Philadelphia County, the others being transfer prisoners brought here from Pittsburgh.

Brief descriptions were given as follows:

Herman Bagler, from Clearfield County, convicted of aggravated assault and battery with intent to murder, sentenced to serve 4 to 12 years. He is 5 feet, 10 inches in height, weighs 165 pounds, 23 years old, has gray eyes and light chestnut hair.

Jesse Neff from Allegheny County, for robbery and receiving stolen goods, 2 to 3 years, 5 ft., 9 in., 185 pounds, blue eyes, 23 years old, light chestnut hair.

Thomas Provance, from Clinton County, 5 to 6 years for burglary and larceny, 5 ft., 10 in., 160 pounds, light gray eyes, 23 years old, medium blonde hair.

Clair Jamison, from Lawrence County, 3½ to 4 years, for breaking and entering and larceny, 5 ft., 10 in., weighs 154 pounds, slate eyes, 23 years old, chestnut brown hair.

Robert Hill, from Jefferson County, 3 to 4 years, breaking and entering, 5 ft., 10 in., 175 pounds, slate eyes, 25 years old, dark chestnut hair.

Arthur Price, from Philadelphia County, robbery, 3 to 5 years, 5 ft., 7 in., 164 pounds, greenish slate eyes, 23 years old, dark chestnut hair.

Two other prisoners had escaped on Sunday evening, having gotten away from the enclosure in some unexplained manner. They were described as follows:

Ed Biddell, from Cambria County, 3 to 5 years, for larceny, height, 5 ft., 10 in., weighs 179 pounds, gray eyes, chestnut hair, 25 years old.

F. L. Carson, from Fayette County, larceny, 2 to 3 years, 5 ft., 10 in., 182 pounds, brown eyes, black hair streaked with gray, 39 years old.

The new steward, who will be here temporarily until a regular man is secured for the place, is Mr. Dames, formerly at Pittsburgh institution, where he closed affairs during the weekend and arrived here on Monday.

Newton Weber Injured.

Newton Weber, of Smullton, who has been visiting in Flemington, was painfully bruised, but fortunately escaped serious injury when he was run down by an automobile driven by Charles Workman, of Hecla Park. Mr. Workman said, "The accident occurred last Saturday evening about 7 o'clock. Mr. Weber stepped from back of another car directly in my path and I had no chance to stop. I stopped as quickly as I could and picked him up and took him to the Lock Haven hospital. They found there were no bones broken and no serious injury. Then I brought Mr. Weber back to Flemington."

Special Court Yesterday.

A special session of court was held yesterday by Judge Quigley and a number of desertion and non-support cases were heard, some being disposed of.

COUNCIL MEETING

Will Repair Both Pumping Stations; Other Newsy Notes.

The regular session of Council on Monday evening was lengthy.

A letter from Ward Fleming, Esq., of Philipsburg, gave notice in equity against Franklin Bartley.

A petition from D. A. Barlet and Fred Herman requested Council to act on getting proper sewage connection on Curtin street.

The water committee reported completing of the investigation of the right to permit the Evangelical congregation to use the lot near Logan's branch, adjoining the church property, as a dumping ground and for storage purposes in connection with the proposed new building of the church. The committee said they had no jurisdiction over permitting dumping of earth, etc., at the edge of the stream and could not grant this but had no objections to the land being used as a place to store building materials.

The Phoenix pumping station was reported as being badly in need of repairs and a motion was adopted authorizing the water committee and borough manager to proceed and have both pumping stations put in good repair.

The fire and police committee reported receipt of a check of $25 from the Bellefonte Central Railroad company for service rendered by the fire department when the Hunters Park station was recently burned. One-third of this amount was given the Undine Fire company, who responded, and the balance went into the town treasury.

There was then a lengthy discussion about appointing a policeman. The burgess recommended the appointment of W. H. Geisinger, a former state policeman, at a salary of $110 per month. After careful consideration, it was decided to make Geisinger an offer of $90 per month, Councilmen stating that they did not see their way clear to increase the present salary from $75 to $110.

Councilman Waite stated that the United Brethren church would like to have a survey to ascertain just where the curb should be at their property.

A special profile was shown giving plans by the borough engineer for the proposed extension work on Curtin and Wilson streets to cost approximately $1,935. The borough manager and street committee were authorized to secure bids for the construction work.

The committee reported that before it was possible to proceed with the concrete crossing in front of the Logan Hose house it was necessary to cut down a tree. It was also authorized to cut down the tree in front of the Benner property on High street.

The matter of the repairing of the sewer line on Curtin street, near the Mrs. Ward property, was referred to the street committee and the borough manager.

A new fire hydrant was placed on the corner of Curtin and Allegheny streets, replacing one that was reported worn out.

A motion was adopted that John S. Ginter, of Tyrone, treasurer of the board of managers of the Pruner estate, be required to furnish bond in the future. This was done because he has in his care large sums of the Pruner orphanage fund.

SAY BOY STARTED FIRE BURNED THREE BARNS

Bellefonte Firemen Responded; Milesburg Loss $3,000.

PUT MATCH TO PAPER

Bellefonte firemen were called and responded to a blaze in Milesburg yesterday morning that resulted in a $3,000 fire loss for Milesburg. The fire was started by "Bust" Bryan, a child of about 5 years of age, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Bryan. He found a match and applied it to a piece of paper. Everything was very dry and the blaze quickly got beyond control. The lad was fortunate in escaping burns.

Three barns were burned before the blaze was finally extinguished. The loss would have been even greater had it not been that neighbors quickly formed a brigade and got some large hose, which they attached to a plug and used to good advantage, keeping the fire under control until the arrival of the firemen.

The barns were owned by Elmer Bryan, John Shultz and Fred Dykes. In the Bryan barn was a new Ford coupe, the property of Mr. Bryan's son-in-law, Jos. Fisher. The car was also destroyed.

Presbyterian Day June 26.

The Committee having charge of the arrangements for Presbyterian Day at Lakemont Park have found it advisable to change the date from Wednesday, June 27th, to Tuesday June 26th, since by making this change in the date, it will be possible to have as the speaker for the afternoon meeting, Rev. Charles F. Wishart, D. D., moderator of the General Assembly. Aside from the position Dr. Wishart occupies as moderator of the General Assembly and as head of one of the leading colleges of the Presbyterian church, he is an orator of National reputation and the committee in charge of the arrangements are to be congratulated on the success of their efforts to have him present.

Woods—Waite.

John Woods and Miss Julia A. Waite, two of Bellefonte's most popular young folks, were united in marriage at 7 o'clock on Tuesday morning at the St. John's Catholic church by Father Downes, the rector. Sam Waite, a brother of the bride, and Miss Helen Ambrose, of Lock Haven, were the attendants. Following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Waite. Friends started the newlyweds on their honeymoon trip by a ride over the principal streets of the town, with wedding music as accompaniments, after which they departed for Harrisburg and eastern cities, planning to return in a week or ten days, when they will reside at the Woods' home on Bishop street.

PASS NEW TAX LAWS

Legislature Enacts Measures to Raise Twenty Million Dollars.

The Pennsylvania Legislature, which adjourned finally last Thursday, enacted two laws which it is estimated will levy upward of $20,000,000 in taxes in the coming 2 years.

One of the new tax laws levies a tax of one fourth of one per cent. on the net profits of corporations. The other increases the gasoline tax to 2 cents per gallon. The tax must be paid to the State by distributors. Payments must be made quarterly, instead of monthly, which was the old system. An effort was made to have the new law require the tax to be paid by the wholesalers, and thereby prevent evasion of payment of any such tax by individuals purchasing in wholesale lots, but the Legislature would not adopt the plan.

In the closing hours of the session, the Legislature rebelled against Governor Pinchot's request for an appropriation of $250,000 for enforcing the prohibition enforcement law. When he realized that further effort would be futile, the Governor receded from his request. The Williams bill, passed and signed earlier in the week, requires that any person, whether an owner or not, who drives an automobile or motor truck, shall pay a driver's license fee of $1. This law makes provision for the employment of a large number of uniformed State highway inspectors whose duty shall be to patrol highways. Such inspectors are empowered to stop and examine any or all cars. It is reported that under this law the Governor expects to accomplish some of the work he had in contemplation when he asked the Legislature for a specific appropriation of $250,000 for enforcement purposes. The law will yield upward of $1,000,000 annually.

The general appropriation passed by the Legislature carries a total of about $83,000,000 for the coming two years.

Blamed Locust for Accident.

Unexpected flying of a big bug into a car, said to have been a locust, caused a disastrous wreck on a sharp curve on the road near Bigler on Sunday. W. L. Musser, accompanied by his brother-in-law, Jacob Knisely, Jr., of Bellefonte, motored to Clearfield on Saturday to visit with the latter's brother, Hunter Knisely, and family and to bring Mr. Musser's wife and two children home, who had been spending some time in Clearfield. On Sunday they were riding and on rounding a sharp curve on the road near Bigler, were stopped by a girl who said her father was laying at the foot of the embankment, badly injured, and asked for help. It was learned that the driver of the car had been frightened by the "locust" and lost control of the car which plunged over the embankment and was wrecked, causing the occupants all to be more or less injured, the head of the family suffering the most. He was picked up and taken to the Clearfield hospital where hope for his recovery is entertained.

May Mean Cancer Cure.

A theory, advanced by Donald A. C. Butts, physiological chemist engaged in research work, that cancer is caused by a disturbed electro-chemical distribution of the particles in the body cells, is arousing widespread interest among medical men in Philadelphia, many of whom believe discovery of the cause of the malady will result in the discovery of a cure. Butts gave a demonstration and explanation of his theory before the alumnae association of the Womens' Medical college in that city. Cancer, he said, is caused by an excess of positive electricons or energy in cells where cancer has developed. The cells then become detached and spread to other parts of the body. Colloid of sulpher, Butts said, is now being used in successful treatment of cancer by many physicians in order to combat the electro chemical disturbance in the body cells.

BUSY HANDLING ORDERS

Ford Motor Co. Undertaking Its Greatest Task.

June finds the Ford Motor Co. undertaking the greatest task of its career, that of attempting to fill an order list for cars and trucks which totals 311,000 for the month.

Popularity of the Ford has never been so strikingly illustrated as this year, for every month has brought increasing orders with June topping them all.

And the demand for the Ford extends into every section of the country, for dealers from the largest town to the smallest city all have asked for increased allotments of Ford cars and trucks for delivery to their customers.

Production has been steadily moved upward right along and the enormous manufacturing facilities of the company are daily being taxed to the utmost in an endeavor to meet the demand, and to assist in delivering cars with as little delay as possible.

During the present month production is on a schedule which calls for approximately 6,700 cars and trucks a day, another increase in the record-breaking output which sales demands make necessary.

COMPETITIVE EXAMINATION

Will be Held Throughout United States; Also Bellefonte.

At the request of the Postmaster General, the United States Civil Service Commission announces an open competitive examination to be held in a number of cities, including Clarence, on July 14, 1923, to fill the position of postmaster at each of the offices named at which a vacancy exists. It is expected that appointments will be made as a result of this examination unless it is found in the interest of the service to fill any vacancy by transfer or promotion. This is not an examination under the Civil Service Act and rules, but is held under an Executive order of May 10, 1921, providing for such procedure.

Modify Liquor Restrictions.

Relaxation of the prohibition regulations affecting liquor supplies of hospitals and retail druggists has been announced by Federal Prohibition Commissioner Haynes. State directors are given new orders to expedite applications of hospitals and druggists to the full limit of their yearly quarterly allowances and state directors are reminded that if hospitals and drug stores do not use their entire quota in one quarter they may draw the difference in a later period. The later regulation is designed to increase supplies in winter seasons when they are regarded as more necessary in cases of sickness.

Philipsburg Elks New Home.

The Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, Philipsburg Lodge No. 1173, which for many years has occupied leased rooms, recently closed a deal for the purchase of the C. W. Owens property on North Second St. The consideration was $18,500. The property will give the Philipsburg Elks a very desirable new home. Mr. Owens will continue to reside in Philipsburg, although he has not definitely selected another property.

BIG CIRCUS HERE JUNE 30

Bellefonte Scheduled for Splendid Saturday Attraction.

Gentry Bros. famous shows combined with Jas. Patterson's big 4-ring trained wild animal circus will visit Bellefonte, Saturday June 30th.

Four hundred people employed and carrying over two hundred foreign and domestic animals, is the statement of Mr. E. C. Steele, agent for the Gentry Bros.' famous shows, combined with James Patterson's big four ring trained wild animal circus, who was in town June 16th making arrangements for the appearance of this big circus here, on June 30th.

This strange colony of people, handsome horses, rare wild animals and the golden caravans are scheduled to arrive here during the early hours of the morning of the above date in their own special trains from Tyrone, where they will exhibit the day before.

Circus day will begin with a big street parade at 11.00 o'clock and two performances will be given, the first starting at 2.00 P. M. and the other at 8.00 P. M.

The grounds known as the old Fair Grounds have been arranged for by the agent and a number of our merchants have received contracts to furnish large quantities of feed stuff for both man and beast.

This big circus combination is well established and bears the reputation, second to none, for the high class exhibition presented and the honest manner they have of dealing with the public—no grafting or gambling being tolerated or carried with the show.

TYRONE DIVISION ITEMS

Local Clippings Taken from "The Pennsylvania News."

Harry F. Bell, passenger conductor, Tyrone, won the admiration of all passengers on his train the other day at Howard, Pa., when he stopped the train and went back and assisted an old lady to get on. Otherwise she would have missed it. Mr. Bell on July 1 completed thirty-one years in the passenger service on the Tyrone Division with a spotless record.

Mrs. John Nolan, wife of the engineer, Tyrone, is recuperating following an operation at the Clearfield hospital.

Margaret "Peg" Hutchison, clerk at the Warren freight station, recently visited her uncle, Harry L. Hutchison, the genial passenger agent at Bellefonte.

Attending Theological Institute.

Rev. H. F. Babcock, student pastor at St. Paul's M. E. church in State College, departed on Sunday afternoon for Evanston, Ill., where he will attend the Garrett Biblical Institute. During his absence this summer, his family will continue to reside in State College and Rev. Babcock will join them about September.

OVER THE COUNTY

Seventeen year locusts are reported very plentiful in the Seven mountains.

Work on the new municipal building in Millheim is reported as progressing nicely.

Rumor has it that a certain Millheim fisherman was caught recently along Pine creek with 9 undersized trout in his possession for which he paid a fine of $90.

Farmers throughout the county have been cultivating corn. The weather has not been so favorable, apparently, to the best growth of corn and yet the stand is good and the appearance very good.

Funeral Director F. V. Goodhart, of Centre Hall, has ordered a new auto hearse which he is expecting within several weeks. The body is latest type, gray, and expected to be among the finest in the county.

John H. Knarr was very painfully cut above one eye when he was struck by a ball thrown with considerable speed, and not noticed, by Mr. Arney, who was walking outside of the Grange park at Centre Hall.

This Thursday is the first day of summer, according to the calendar and almanac, and is also the longest day of the year.

The American Legion post will hold a festival in Spring Mills on Saturday evening. The Aaronsburg band will furnish music.

The Millheim Lodge, I. O. O. F., held memorial services for their departed members in Aaronsburg on Saturday afternoon. The Aaronsburg band furnished music.

Lightning, which struck a chestnut tree on a farm near State College, killed 2 cows that were under it and burned another. The cows were owned by S. David Slegal and sought shelter under the tree during a recent electrical storm.

Frank E. Arney, of Centre Hall, employed in the quarries at that place, was struck on the back by a stone that fell from the face of the quarry, and painfully injured. He has since been unable to work, but it is not thought the injury will be permanent.

Trained Wild Animal Circus.

Annette Delmonte and her troupe of young lady riders, her remarkable carrier pigeons and the scores of renowned Gentry animal actors, human arenic stars and unusual novelty features will be seen when Gentry Bros. famous shows combined with James Patterson's Big 4-ring trained wild animal circus come to Bellefonte, on Saturday June 30, to exhibit afternoon and night and to parade the principle streets that morning with a mile of pageantry, an open air review of great beauty and colorful attractiveness, including open and closed cages, camel tandem teams, mounted bands, 200 ponies, beautiful horses, elephants, dromedaries, clowns, tableau wagons, and Mother Goose floats filled with the most beautiful performing dogs in the world. People who love horses, ponies and dogs (and there are few of us who do not) may be interested to learn that the circus is carrying with their famous shows a veterinarian, a highly specialized surgeon and practitioner, who explains to visitors how Gentry Bros. carry over 200 ponies on the road and never have ills for any length of time. This is true of the horses and dogs, also to say nothing of the wild animals in the interesting arena of the show. The veterinary surgeon invites stockmen to visit him at the circus grounds. adv.

TAUGHT IN CRUEL MANNER

Performing Animals Frequently Inspired by Torture to Remember and Go Through Trick.

The exhibition of performing animals as a means of livelihood is not a modern practice. Nor is the use of cruelty in their training. The Arab writer, John Leo, gives an excellent account of one method in his "Description of Africa," published at Rome in 1526. He describes the preliminary training of a dancing camel. The young camel, he says, is placed for half an hour in a confined space, "the floor whereof is hot with fire." The trainer then beats a drum, and the camel falls a dancing, not from any desire to keep time with the beating of the drum, but because of "the hot pavement which offendeth his feet." This training was continued for about a year, after which time the camel was deemed fit for presentation "unto the publike view of the people, when as hearing the noyse of a drum, and remembering the time when he trode upon the hot floore, he presently falleth a dancing and leaping; and so, use being turned into a kind of nature, he perpetually observeth the same custome."

At Cairo Leo saw a wonderful performing ass, whose antics have been described in another famous book, Topsell's "Historie of Foure-Footed Beastes," published in 1607. This ass was almost human, says Leo.

ORIGIN LOST IN ANTIQUITY

One Can Only Speculate as to Whence Came Proverbs That Today Are Household Words.

A peculiarity of the proverbs of the Bible is that they are worldwide in their application, but it is true also that they are not in the main historical in their allusions. The quest for true origins is probably as futile as it is unrewarding. We share with Mr. Marvin the surprise he felt when he discovered that the phrase, "Thou hast the advantage of the angry when thou keepest silence," is written in the precepts of Ptah-hotep, dating back to a period more than 3,000 years before the birth of Christ. Who knows, indeed, but that Plutarch and Periander, Thales and Heiron, Solon and Solomon, and a multitude of others who lived in bygone ages, "borrowed their wise sayings from the talk of the firesides, and the conversations in the market places; so that the origin of many proverbs now flippantly quoted in the converse of men is lost in the mists of forgotten centuries?"—Portland Oregonian.

The Swastika Symbol.

The subject of the origin of the Swastika symbol has given rise to protracted controversy. The latest contribution to the question is that of Harit Krishna Deb, in the Journal of the Asiatic Society, Bengal. He suggests that it is a modification of the mode of expressing the ancient Hindu syllable Om, which is used in religious rites. This, a pothook with square ends, was duplicated, one across the other, to form the Swastika, meaning "bringer of blessings," which goes back in India to the Seventh century, when it was used as a cattle mark. Another reference is well before 528 B. C. It is found on gold leaf on a vase with relics of Buddha, and it appears on the Edicts of Asoka (272-232 B. C.). The earliest example known is on a spindle whorl from the third city of Troy, about 1800 B. C., and it is frequent in Greek vases about 600 B. C.

Mexico, Former Home of Boll-Weevil.

Economically speaking, the cotton boll-weevil is by far the worst insect enemy of mankind. Cotton clothes the world, and we produce in this country four-fifths of all that is grown.

The earliest home of the boll-weevil seems to have been the plateau region of Mexico or Central America. As an enemy of the cotton, it first attracted attention in 1843, near Vera Cruz. Thereafter its spread was rapid, and in parts of Mexico its depredations caused abandonment of cotton growing.

Not until 1892 did it invade the United States. In that year it crossed the Rio Grande near Brownsville, having obtained a good foothold in Texas by 1894. The boll-weevil proceeded to extend its range, and has since spread at a rate of 40 to 160 miles annually.

Trees Demand Much Light.

In some natural pine forests, where the trees grow very close together, statistics show that more than 4,000 trees per acre die between the ages of ten and eighty, and that only 300 out of the remainder die between the ages of eighty and one hundred. With some this natural dying proceeds faster than with others. With pine, birch, aspen and all species which demand a great deal of light, the death rate is enormous. The spruce, beech, fir and, generally speaking, all species which are satisfied with less light are not affected so seriously.

What He Was Looking For.

"Have you a book writ by a feller named Euclid?"

The bookseller was disconcerted for a moment, but finally admitted that he had.

"I'm in the movie business," continued the stranger, "and I think maybe this book would make a good five-reel feature."

"What gave you that idea?"

"I overheard a literary guy talking about it. He said it was full of triangles."

GUARDIANS TO BE TRUSTED

One Would Think, However, Resourceful Thief Might Consider the Use of Poisoned Bait.

Thieves are plenty in Annam, in southeast Asia, but steel safes are scarce, so the native prince, ruler of the country, uses crocodiles to guard his treasures. Rulers in that country have great wealth in valuable jewels, gold, and silver.

The prince of Annam was puzzled for a long time how to keep his treasures safe from those who coveted them. He could not trust armed guards, because like as not the guards would turn around and steal some of the gold or silver or precious jewels when the prince was not looking. Finally he thought about crocodiles. They are ferocious animals and do not steal.

In the interior of his palace he caused to be constructed a basin which he kept filled with water. Then he procured several teak logs, bored them through, placed his valuables in the logs, sealed both ends and sunk them in the basin of water.

Having obtained two crocodiles, he put them in the tank of water to guard the treasures. The crocodiles are fed just enough to keep them perpetually hungry. The prince feels safe. Anybody attempting to fish the logs out of the pool will be a nice meal for the crocodiles.

ANTS' KEEN SENSE OF SMELL

Are Said to Have Neither Sight Nor Hearing, but Remarkable Olfactory Nerves.

Ants are said to be both blind and deaf, but none are known to be destitute of the sense of smell. The olfactory organs are little sensory pits in the antennae. It is evidently by means of their sense of smell that ants recognize the members of their own nest, and those of other species which they treat as enemies.

However, certain species of ants are evidently not deaf, because they are capable of producing sounds which must be heard by others of their own kind. One species has a file-like sound-producing apparatus on the abdominal segment. Another ant of this group is provided with a stridulating file, and in another ant there is a stridulating organ consisting of a band of very fine raised lines on the second segment behind the node. Other ants tap on the surface of a leaf with their heads, producing a sound audible to human ears, as does another species by scraping the end of its abdomen on the dry leaves of its nest.

Discipline.

A northern guest in Pinehurst happened upon an old negro who was beating down dried cotton stalks. "Uncle, what did the boll weevil do to you this past year?" he inquired.

The old man looked up, saw "one o' dem nawthern folks," and answered him in this manner:

"Lawd, boss, dey was de wust here dat dey has ever been. Why, one night I was awoke from my res' by such a noise dat I ain't never heard de lak of befo'. I takes my lantern and goes out in dat patch over dere and what do you 'spose I foun'?"

"I have no idea, uncle. What was it?" the northerner replied.

"Lawd, cap, de old pappy boll weevil had a big stick beating all de little boll weevils 'cause dey wouldn't take two rows at a time."—North Carolina Boll Weevil.

United States Citizenship.

The fact that a child of a citizen of the United States is born abroad does not affect that child's citizenship in the United States. By the revised statutes of the United States a son born to parents who are citizens of the United States while they are traveling in Europe is an American citizen as fully as if he had been born in this country and is entitled to all the rights of a citizen when he becomes of age. The federal Constitution provides that "no person except a natural-born citizen, or a citizen of the United States at the time of the adoption of this Constitution, shall be eligible to the office of President," so that a naturalized citizen cannot become president.

How She Interpreted Dream.

Sir Frederick Bridge, for over 40 years the organist at Westminster abbey, tells a story about a lottery which permitted the choice of special numbers on the tickets.

A little girl bought a ticket for a lottery, and insisted that she should be allotted No. 23. As she would buy no other ticket, her wish was granted, and she won a considerable sum.

"Why did you want that number?" she was asked afterwards.

"Well, I had a dream," she said. "I dreamt that I had bought No. 7, and I dreamt it three times." So I said to myself: "Three sevens are twenty-three, and that's the number for me!"

The Canterbury Tales.

How essentially, how intimately English the famous poem is! So admirably has he managed to interweave the various tales with the encounters and casual dialogues of the actual wayfaring that, long before Broughton on Blee is reached, we have come to feel that we ourselves might be one of the company, so vividly is the motley troop brought before our imagination as it ambles forward, up hill and down dale, across the broad hop-bearing acres of Kent!—Llewellyn Powys, in "Thirteen Worthies."

WOMEN OF THE OLD SOUTH

Had by No Means a Life of Idleness, Since Their Domestic Duties Were Many.

There is still widespread conception that the wives of the ante-bellum southern planters led a life of ease and idleness. Such was far from the truth, says a writer in the New York Sun. Woman played a vital part in the old southern economic system, a role which kept her busy and loaded her with grave responsibilities.

She was the head of the domestic side of the plantation life. Not only did she supervise the housework of the mansion, but she had to look after the servants' quarters as well. As for the slaves, their food, their clothing, their health were under her care.

It is related that a distinguished foreign diplomat was astonished, when visiting Mount Vernon, to find Mrs. Washington surrounded by negro girls from ten to fifteen years old, busily knitting stockings for the slaves of the plantation.

Thus was the sphere of the southern woman sharply defined. It was an important sphere, so far as it went, but it was dependent upon the plantation system out of which it grew. After the freeing of the slaves and the industrial revolution which it produced, the women of the South found themselves bereft of the occupation for which they were bred.

CARRY THE MILK IN BASKETS

Nature of Filipino Deliverers' Work Has Led to Their Superb Physical Development.

Treading softly, the Manila milkman delivers freshly foaming carabao milk in tall Spanish wine bottles to his customers' front doors long before sunrise.

Unlike the American milkman, he has no equipage in which to transport his wares, but carries them in two wicker baskets slung from the ends of a bamboo pole which is laid across the shoulders through a wooden neck yoke.

Carabao milk is said to be delicious when served in coffee or chocolate, surpassing in flavor both cow's and goat's milk.

Because of their early morning track work, Filipino milkmen are superior physically to any other type of workingmen in the islands, with powerful leg muscles and broad, strong shoul-

Horseferry Road.

Visitors to London will remember a street back of Westminster abbey, which was called Horseferry road. It leads to a bridge across the Thames and once had the only horse ferry allowed in London, a monopoly granted to the archbishops of Canterbury, and when most of the traffic of the old ferry was diverted by the opening of Westminster bridge, the see of Canterbury was granted $11,000 compensation for loss of revenue. The old ferry, which continued to ply until the erection of Lambeth bridge, 60 years ago, had a place in English history, for by it James II and his consort passed from Whitehall to the Surrey side one dark night in December 1688, en route for France and exile. The king threw the great seal into the river from the ferryboat during the crossing. It was picked up by a fisherman and given to William of Orange.

Carvings as Guides to Water.

In the country around Saline valley, Inyo county, Calif., Indian rock carvings can still be seen, and many whites know how to read them to the extent of using them as guides to water. In eastern Arizona these rock carvings were made by the ancient tribe from which the present-day Hopi descended. This is proved by the similarity between these pictures and those made in modern times by the Hopi, and by the fact that the sacred snake, worshiped by the Hopi for many centuries, was dug up in a ruin near Springerville. The Blackfeet have a tradition that many years ago a delegation was sent south to the land of the Hopi, by their head medicine man, to worship and pray before his sandstone figure, for the return of the buffalo herds to the Blackfeet country, after a migration.

Cursed to Wander Over Earth.

People without a country, the gypsies roam to all four corners of the earth. It is said that many years ago a Moslem saint of Turkey cursed the people with these words: "May you never more enter or belong to the 77½ races of the earth, but as outcasts be scattered, homeless, wretched and poor; ever wandering and toiling, never realizing wealth, never enjoying the fruits of your labor, and never acquiring the esteem of mankind." The curse didn't work in all its particulars. For instance, a lot of gypsies are not poor. It is said that many have pretty fair bank accounts. And the saint cursed them to everlasting toil. But who ever saw a gypsy work?

PRESIDENT HARDING'S APPEAL

Young Men Should Enter Citizens' Military Training Camps.

"I hope every young man who can arrange it will attend one of the Citizens' Military Training camps to be conducted this summer by the War Department in each of the 9 army corps areas.

"In this way he will increase his worth to the nation and obtain individual benefits of priceless value to himself and to the community in which he lives.

"I hope to see established in my administration a comprehensive system of voluntary military training for at least 100,000 men each year. Every young man who is willing to prepare himself for the defense of his country should be given an opportunity to do so.

"Our present national defense law established an economical and democratic military policy thoroughly consistent with our national traditions. It provides for a small regular army to be augmented by great citizen forces in the event of national emergency. This is our traditional military policy. But whereas in the past these larger war forces have been extemporized after the occurrence of an emergency, the new law wisely provides that the framework of their organization shall be established and developed in time of peace, in so far as this is practicable through the voluntary service of our patriotic young men. The army of the United States, as defined in the new law, comprises the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Organized Reserves. Every patriotic citizen should encourage the development of these forces, each within its proper sphere."

Locusts.

Locusts—17-year locusts of course—are plentiful. Very few folks realize it, however, until they get where there are trees—in the mountains hereabouts, for instance, and all day long the call of the Pharoahs can be heard. Almost anywhere in the country that call—so familiar to many—is overheard above all else now, even the chugging of the motors on the state roads failing to drown out the steady weird noise. The locusts are plentiful and came on schedule time. They will cause much damage to trees—forest and fruit—and they will give rise to many tales among the reminiscent story-tellers. There is a report that locusts are not harmful to anything but trees. However, there is a something about the "big bugs" that stimulates awe and a feeling of dread to have them too close. Here and there one tells of how a locust stung a horse and killed it, they tell of how the trees are hurt and in some instances killed. This brings on a conclusion—locusts may not hurt anything but trees, but don't take any chances.

Centre County League Baseball.

Last Thursday Bellefonte lost its first game of the season to State College, the score being 4—2. Centre Hall defeated Millheim 11—4 and on Saturday lost to State College. Saturday afternoon a fair sized crowd watched Bellefonte win from Millheim, the score being 9—7. This was the benefit game for Samuel Weaver, who recently had his leg broken and it netted him about $100.

This evening at 6 o'clock sharp, Centre Hall and Bellefonte will play at Hughes field. State College will play at Millheim today. On Saturday afternoon at 2:30 State College will play at Bellefonte and a big attendance is expected. Centre Hall will also play at Millheim.

Big Black Gum Tree.

What is probably the largest black gum tree in Pennsylvania stands in a tract of virgin timber near Milroy, in Mifflin County. According to measurements taken recently by District Forester Thomas Harbeson, the tree is 10 feet in circumference at breast-high and 95 feet high. It is clear of branches for more than 50 feet from the ground and promises to live many more years. Its unusual large size is attributed to the favorable conditions under which it developed. It stands on fertile soil near a small mountain stream.

Failed to Crack Safe.

A bold but unsuccessful attempt was made last Thursday night to rob the safe at the Wilson Chemical works in Tyrone. The marauders succeeded in demolishing the lock with the aid of a sledge hammer and dynamite, but did not get the doors open. A heavy hammer and distinct finger prints on the window jams and the safe may lead to the apprehension of the robbers.

WEEK OF CELEBRATION

June 18 to 23 Set Aside to Commemorate Production.

On Tuesday, June 12, the Willys-Overland company of Toledo, Ohio, produced its one millionth car and this car bearing serial number 1,000,000, marking as it does a significant event in the annals of one of the World's largest automobile industries, will be given official recognition by all Willys-Overland branches, distributors and dealers throughout the United States during the week of June 18 to the 23. This week has been set aside by President John N. Willys as Jubilee Week when celebrations will be carried out in every section of the country.

Big preparations are completed to make the week a notable one, following a week of many functions in Toledo when the Willys Overland company entertained the leading civic clubs of the city to luncheons and dinners in the administration building.

The creation of the one millionth car is conducive to some retrospection. The original Overland was designed and built in Terre Haute, Indiana, in 1901 by Claude E. Fox a youthful graduate of Rose Polytechnic Institute. The car proved to be an innovation due chiefly to the fact that the motor was placed over the front axle instead of being placed under the seat as were the engines in all other cars being made at that time, the designer insisting that the location over the front axle was the logical place and asserting that in time all manufacturers would recognize the advisability of it. Another decided improvement that the Overland had over other cars of that period was the seating arrangement. Early models of the car came out with the entrance to the rear seat from the side, while the entrance to the rear seat on other makes was from the rear. The Overland was also the first car to adopt the four door now universally used.

The car was named Overland by Charles Minshall then President of the Standard wheel works of Terre Haute and the advertising slogan in those days was "The Overland will get you there and back." Later on the plant was moved to Indianapolis and finally to Toledo, where the gigantic factories of the Willys-Overland company are turning out over 1,000 cars a day.

Last month, 22,282 cars were produced by the Willys-Overland company, this being the largest month's business in the history of the concern. All existing records were broken for daily production as well as for the first five months' production in any past year. During the last three days of the month the plant produced an average of 1066 cars per day.

Pennsylvania Efficiency.

Prompt initiative and energy commensurate with the greatest railroad corporation in the world have been shown by the Pennsylvania in the marvelously rapid restoration of the Broad Street Station to public use. By tomorrow evening it is expected a nearly normal tide of travel will be passing through the main building. No one who did not view the appalling devastation wrought in the gigantic trainshed by the fire can appreciate the wonderful achievement in reconstructing the tracks and platforms in three or four days.

Co-ordination of engineering skill and direction appear to have risen superior to an emergency that could scarcely have been foreseen. At a time when a shortage of both labor and materials for construction might have been supposed to hamper the operations, the Pennsylvania Railroad has been able to mobilize its resources in workmen and assemble enormous quantities of lumber, iron, steel, rails and miscellaneous supplies. Thereby the maximum of work is pushing night and day to the end that there may be a minimum of public inconvenience.

Not only Philadelphia, but the millions of people who are served by main arteries of travel which converge at Broad Street Station, should appreciate this enterprise. Most of the present work is necessarily temporary, but so far is this fact from reducing the credit due to the officials who have conducted the work, that it establishes the high sense of duty to the public which brooked no delay in providing a remedy for the widespread inconvenience caused by Monday morning's disaster.

Would a Government bureaucracy, bound with red tape, have been similarly equal to the task?—Editorial from Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, published Thursday, June 14.

Special Stamp Tax.

The deputy internal revenue collector for this district will be at Philipsburg on June 25th at Moshannon National Bank; State College, June 27, at Nittany Inn; Bellefonte, June 28, 29 and 30 at Court House; to receive remittance for special tax stamp, by order of the collector, David W. Phillips. Special tax must be paid not later than June 30th to avoid penalty.

Examination at Coburn.

ODD VERSION OF "SHYLOCK"

On the Japanese Stage Shakespeare's Famous Character Is Made a Fisherman.

The globe trotter went to a performance of "The Merchant of Venice" recently. He had but recently returned from the Orient, where, he told his friends that were at the theater with him, he had seen a Japanese version of that Shakespearean play.

"It's interesting to note the changes they make in it," he remarked, according to the New York Sun. "Of course they have to localize it, or else they'd miss the meaning of it altogether. For instance, the part of Shylock, as played in the Japanese 'Merchant' is not a Jew, because the Japanese could not understand the anti-Semitic feeling prevalent in certain of our occidental countries. Instead, he is pictured to them as a fisherman, which is rather a despicable type in Japan.

"Then Shylock does not cry for his pound of flesh. Instead, it is an inch of flesh he demands. The Japanese Shylock, when Antonio the merchant bares his breast, marks with brush and paint a square inch on the latter's flesh. Just at the moment he is about to draw forth his knife, a longer and far more murderous looking one than any used in English productions, Portia is brought to the court in her dainty jinrikisha."

ORIGIN OF THE HAWAIIANS

Belief Has Been Held That They Are Descended From the Lost Tribes of Israel.

The origin of the Hawaiian people is still somewhat obscure. Oldest inhabitants of the islands told the earliest missionaries that the largest island was produced from a large egg, deposited by an immense bird upon the water, which, bursting, formed the present island. From the first land the other islands of the Hawaiian group developed automatically.

The conservative Hawaiians of early days stoutly held the opinion that the first human inhabitants of the islands descended from the gods, or were created by a miracle upon the islands. Some of the earliest American missionaries found conclusive evidence, to their minds, that the Hawaiians sprang from the lost ten tribes of Israel. The Rev. S. Dibble, in his "History of the American Mission," 1843, gives much space to tracing the parallels between customs and traditions of the Hawaiians and the ceremonies and scripture of the Jews.

Gentle Hearts.

Great minds—male and female—have gentle hearts. Izaak Walton handled a frog as if he loved him. Cowper would not unnecessarily hurt a worm. Lincoln upset his White House cabinet to rescue a mother pig from a mire. Webster neglected the Supreme court to replace a baby robin that had fallen from its nest. . . Walton, the father of fishers and fishing, angled for the habits of fishes more than for their hides. The capture of a fish was insignificantly incidental to the main notion of his hours abroad—his divine love of the waters the fields, the meadows, the skies, the trees and God's beautiful things that inhabit these. 'Tis the soul we seek to replenish, not the creel.—From "The Persistent Angler," by Charles Bradford.

Sparrow's Bravery Overdrawn.

"The English sparrow," remarked the amateur ornithologist, "gets credit for a lot of combativeness and bravery he doesn't possess. He is supposed to drive other birds away, but I doubt if he does it. Certainly the robins are not afraid of him, and he flees headlong before blackbirds when they strut toward him on the lawns. Speaking of the robin, our red-chested friend is no coward. In my back yard two robins have their nest, and believe me, they don't allow other birds to molest it. They drive blackbirds away helter skelter, and even bluejays, among the meanest of the feathered tribe, are not allowed to get too fresh. The robin is a peaceable bird at heart, but he is no professional pacifist by a long shot."—Detroit News.

Doctor Nature.

The young man had been ill all his life. Nobody seemed to know what his complaint was, but everybody he came in contact with agreed that he was ill. He looked it, and often said he was born that way. I defined his case the first day I met him—the city complaint, a complication of general under-the-weather-ness that is brought about by foul air, improper exercise, steady indoor work, irregularity, cigarettes, and incorrect food incorrectly eaten. He's well now. He went out in the woods for two weeks every three months for six years, and at present he's fat and solid.—From "The Determined Angler and the Brook Trout," by Charles Bradford.

Making a Home.

"It takes a heap o' living in a house to make it a home," writes Eddie Guest, the Detroit author. And it takes only a little common sense in the selection of furniture to make that home better furnished according to the American scale. Sentiment surrounds the furniture in the home as well as it centers on some particular spot or locality in which that home was built. In fact, sympathy for good furniture means better furnished homes and the treatment of that furniture.

FOSSIL FORESTS IN AMERICA

This Country Has Three of the Four That Are Certainly Known to Exist.

There are only four "fossil forests" areas in the world, three of which are in the United States, the other being near Cairo, Egypt. Of the fossil forests in the United States, one is near Calistoga, Cal., several extensive forests are in the Petrified Forest National monument, Arizona, and the others are those in Yellowstone National park.

Though the whole history of the process of fossilization is not fully understood, it is probably dependent upon entombment of the trees in materials saturated with water containing a considerable amount of silica in solution. This silica-charged water was drawn up into the wood by capillarity, the silica being deposited in the cells and vessels of the wood after the water evaporated, making an accurate cast of all open spaces. Then, while the slow process of decay went on, as each particle of organic matter was removed, its place was taken by the silica until finally all the wood substance had disappeared and its place atom by atom had been taken by silica.

The forests of the Petrified Forest monument are geologically much older than the others; those near Cairo, Egypt, are believed to be the youngest. The Arizona forests belong probably to the Triassic period. Therefore these trees may have been buried between 5,000,000 and 15,000,000 years ago.

RED CORAL USED AS DRUG

Belief in Efficacy Originated in Old Times and Only Comparatively Recently Was Abandoned.

The red coral of the Mediterranean sea is mentioned by some of the earliest of the Greek writers. Orpheus of Thrace mentions it in a poem as a valuable remedy for the sting of scorpions and for snake bites, and its mystical origin is described by Ovid. The myth that the coral is soft in the water and becomes hard when exposed to the air persisted until the Seventeenth century. It was used in early times by the Mediterranean races not only as a jewel and as an amulet for resisting fascinations, and as an antidote for the stings of scorpions, but, according to Diosorides, it was used as a medicine for the spitting of blood and for dysentery.

Red coral, powdered and burnt, was regarded as a very valuable drug for almost every kind of disease during the Seventeenth century, and it remained in the British Pharmacopoeia until the end of the Eighteenth century, and was still sold in chemist shops as late as 1842.

Ended Critical Situation.

In front of the only vacant seat on the early morning subway reposed a small handbag and a suitcase, the latter pressing itself against the knees of a male passenger who occupied the next seat. Another man entered the car and sat down, and as the owner of the luggage made no attempt to remove it the newcomer was obliged to sit with it under his knees.

He looked uncomfortable and turned with an inquiring look to the man beside him, who seemed oblivious to the glances directed at him.

At last he could stand it no longer and again turned to his neighbor. "Hang it, man!" he exclaimed, "if you must take suitcases into the subway you might at least keep them under your own seat!"

The other was about to reply, when the train drew into the Times Square station. A woman passenger on the left of the uncomfortable one arose and, smiling, stooped down.

"Pardon me," she said, "I'm getting off here and those bags are mine."—New York Sun.

Heating Car Wheel Tires.

For heating railroad car wheel tires before mounting them by the shrinking process, an electrical method is in use in France in which the tire forms the secondary of a transformer, being heated by the induced current. The transformer has two laminated horizontal arms, one above the other, connected by a pair of vertical cores. The upper arm is pivoted and counterbalanced so that it can be swung around to permit the introduction of the tire. It is then swung back, putting the transformer into operative position.

Persuasion.

Any woman can make any man do anything, if she can only persuade him that he is doing something really dashing and daredevil. But I admit it does take a clever woman to persuade a man that there is something dashing and dare-devilish in attending a village church.

I never had the bump of ambition. As long as a woman loves her husband, and has enough to eat, I can't see that it matters in what order she walks out of a drawing room.—From "The Lower Pool," by Ellen Thorneycroft Fowler.

To Make Floor Wax.

A good floor wax is made by melting a scant half-pound of beeswax, set in a pan of hot water. Add gradually, stirring well, a quart of turpentine, and when mixed, a half-cupful of ammonia. Cover closely the saucepan containing it and set outer vessel of hot water at the back of the stove to heat it for ten minutes. Apply warm with a piece of flannel and polish with a rough cloth.

CONTINUE TO CLAIM TRACT

Anneke Jans' Heirs Still Confident They Are Entitled to Trinity Church Property.

Though the New York State Court of Appeals outlawed the Anneke Jans heirs' claim to the Trinity church tract in New York city as long ago as 1856, and again in 1881, the claim still persists in the minds of some of Mrs. Jans' thousands of descendants.

The various litigations attacking the Trinity church title were all based on technical irregularities in grants of conveyances, such as the absence of a seal or signature, or on allegations that the grantors themselves had no title. The defense has been adverse possession and the statute of limitation.

The streets laid out by Trinity Church corporation in the Jans tract were named after leading men in the church—Vesey, after Rev. William Vesey, the rector; Barclay, after Rev. Mr. Barclay, who succeeded Vesey as rector; Murray, after a distinguished lawyer and officer of the church; Warren, after Sir Peter Warren, commander of the British naval forces at the station, who married Miss Delancey of New York city; Chambers, after John Chambers, a lawyer, born in New York city, and a leader in civil and church affairs.

URUGUAYAN "GAUCHO" GONE

Natural Evolution Has Resulted in Disappearance of Most Picturesque Character.

While the Uruguayan "gaucho" was a full-blooded Indian, in the Argentine the name was extended to designate the halfbreeds and creoles who led the romantic cowboy life of the great plains. Here the "gaucho" became indistinguishable from the "paisano" or "countryman" of the American Southwest, or the "ranchero" type of the Mexican agricultural states. Naturally he then became the enemy of the Indians, a man of peace withal, though a somewhat turbulent peace, forerunner of the great modern agriculturist.

In this evolutionary stage, in the middle of the last century, the Argentine "gaucho," with his characteristic poncho, long boots, tight pants, long hair tied back about the head, his kerchief at his neck, and his high, narrow-brimmed hat, lent a barbaric note of color to the formation of the rural elements of the embryonic nation. Subjecting himself to wage service on the great estates, he came to be civilized, and being so, he arrived gradually at the extinction which civilization effects for all outstanding individualistic types.

Crescent Was Christian Once.

The national emblem of the Turks is the crescent. Their organization for aiding their wounded is called "The Red Crescent." Under the crescent they fought the soldiers of the cross. Yet crescent as well as cross was really a Christian emblem. For the crescent was first used by the primitive Christians of Constantinople as an emblem of the growing power of Christianity. It was not until about the year 1453, after the Turks had captured Constantinople, that they adopted the crescent as their national emblem. The reason why has never been satisfactorily explained. The crescent is essentially a symbol, and yet the Koran forbids the use of all symbols or images in the religious ceremonies of the Turks. The crescent is used, however, and none seem to object, or recall its Christian origin and significance.

Signs of Trouble.

A Montana fire marshal lists the following as sure signs that something unpleasant is going to happen to you: "A crack in your chimney is a sure sign that you are going to move. If you dream of smelling smoke, it is a sign you are asleep and had better wake up. To see a paperhanger papering over a flue-hole indicates an impending loss. It is bad luck to look into a dark closet with a match. If you can see your shadow from an oil lamp while filling a gasoline stove it indicates a crowd of people coming to your house. When the wind moans, it is extremely bad luck to burn trash near the house. If you smell gas or gasoline and look for it with a light, it foretells that you are about to start on a long journey. Even if your house and furniture are 'covered by insurance,' it is extremely unlucky to have them burn on Friday the 13th."

Rockefeller Foundation.

The Rockefeller Foundation, endowed by John D. Rockefeller with more than 100 million dollars, was given a charter by the state of New York in 1918. Its purpose is "to promote the well-being and advance the civilization of the people of the United States and its territories and possessions, and of foreign lands, in the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge, in the prevention of suffering, and in the promotion of any and all the elements of human progress."

A Born Salesman.

"Did you ever have any exciting experiences?"

"About twenty years ago," said the brisk promoter, "I was ordered to leave a western town by a notorious two-gun man who didn't like the cut of my clothes."

"As you are still alive, I suppose you left?"

"No, I bought him a couple of drinks and sold him the suit."—Detroit Free Press.

Waited Long to Hear Opera.

While the opera "Lohengrin" was produced in 14 cities during the first nine years, its composer, Wagner, did not see it in this time. Guerber's "Stories of the Wagner Opera," says:

"When the opera was first played to an audience composed of musical and literary people from all parts of Europe, whom Liszt had invited to be present, it produced a powerful impression. From the memorable night of its first performance dates the success of the Wagner movement in Germany. During the next nine years this opera was given in 14 cities, and Wagner, who was then a political exile, is reported to have sadly remarked. 'I shall soon be the only German who has not heard Lohengrin.'"

It was in 1861, 11 years after its first performance, that Wagner finally heard it for the first time in Vienna.

Killing Crocodiles.

A double-bladed dagger is used by African natives in the marshes of the Zambesi and other localities in killing crocodiles. The native approaches the animal, and when the latter opens his jaws to seize him, he springs forward, thrusts his arm and the knife far into the yawning mouth, holding it there a moment, one end pointing up to the brain, the other to the tongue beneath, says Adventure Magazine.

As the jaws close he is able to pull back his arm, the mouth being pried open, and throw himself to one side. At each effort to close its jaws it drives the sharp point of the upper knife further into the brain, until it dies in its struggles.

A Fight for Reputation.

A man going along a lonely road was set upon by two highwaymen. He fought desperately, but was finally overcome and searched. All that the bandits found was a dime. "Search him again," said one. "He would never put up a fight like that for a dime."

They searched him again, but could find no more.

"Now tell me," asked the spokesman, "why you fought so we nearly had to kill you?"

"Well," answered the victim, "the truth of the matter is I didn't want my financial condition exposed."—Harper's Magazine.

"RESOLVED, that the Associated Business Men of Bellefonte, approving the slogan 'GIVE OUR RAILROADS A CHANCE,' fully endorse the program of the railroads to provide Adequate Transportation service in 1923 and pledge full co-operation in the effort to anticipate the over-flow of business in the peak period by purchasing NOW, coal and other commodities, as far as practicable, that as a rule move in the fall and winter months."

HORSE DISCLOSED RICH MINE

Uncovered Treasure at Rammelsberg, Where the Devil Is Said to Have Really Worked.

In the Tenth century, so legend has it, Otto I, arriving at his castle in the Harz and finding the royal larder short of venison, sent his hunter Ramm out to the forest to kill a deer. The winter snows were on the ground, and the hunter soon found a fresh track which he followed far up into the mountains. As the way became steeper he was forced to dismount from his horse, which he left tied to a tree, and to follow his quarry on foot. The chase was a long one; and the high-spirited steed, left alone in the cold, impatiently pawed the ground, scraping away the snow and earth and laying bare the rock beneath.

When Ramm returned from his pursuit of the deer he was astonished at the glint of metal beneath the hoofs of his horse, and he hastened to collect pieces of the ore—the first specimens to be taken from the Rammelsberg. The delight of King Otto at the discovery was great; and he rewarded his hunter by giving him a golden chain, worth 1,000 ducats, and by naming the mountain "Rammelsberg," to perpetuate his retainer's name.

Miners say that the devil once really worked in the Rammelsberg, and the "Devil's Pit," as it is known, may be seen there today.

RECORDED FROST IN JUNE

Remarkable Occurrences in the Year 1816 Are Recalled by a New York Newspaper.

The year 1816 has gone down into history as the year of "eighteen hundred and froze to death." Not much authentic information exists concerning it, but the popular name suggests a great deal. A paragraph in Thompson's "History of Vermont," declares that frosts occurred every month of the summer and that snow fell every month of the year. June 8 snow fell to a depth of five or six inches and ice nearly half an inch thick formed on shallow ponds. Another report declares that a great many head of stock perished.

In middle and northern New England crops of all sorts were severely injured or destroyed. In the middle Atlantic states there was great damage, but statistical information concerning the extent of damage is not at hand.

The cause of the cold spell is thought to have been the great amount of volcanic dust that filled the air, intercepting the heat of the sun, and inasmuch as the years 1812-1816 were years of great volcanic activity this explanation is plausible. A dust haze intercepts a great deal of the sun's heat.—New York Herald.

Charles Dickens' Dogs.

In a recent article on "A Dickens Zoo," Mr. L. R. Brightwell points out that in a vast array of books about Dickens it is rather surprising to find so few references to animal characters. The great novelist was, of course, an ardent dog lover. His letters are full of references to his canine friends, and his home at Gads Hill was never without at least two of them—usually dogs of imposing stature and deportment. We find several references to Turk and Linda, and some amusing passages about the little terrier whose troubles parasitic will be a source of sympathetic merriment to every dog lover. Scarcely a volume of the novels and essays is without its "doggy" hero—Gyp in "David Copperfield," Lion in "Little Dorrit," Diogenes in "Dombey and Son," Sikes' nameless cur in "Oliver Twist," Boxer in "The Old Curiosity Shop" and "Cricket on the Hearth," Merrylegs in "Hard Times," Jerry's dogs in "The Old Curiosity Shop," and "The Uncommercial Traveler" is rich in dogs of all sorts.

Testament Ignores Hen.

Poultry and hens' eggs were late additions to the human cuisine, in spite of the large part they now play in our dietary, says H. G. Wells, in a footnote in his "The Outline of History." The hen is not mentioned in the Old Testament, although there is allusion to the egg in Job, nor by Homer. Up to about 1,500 B. C., the only fowls in the world were jungle denizens in India and Burma. The crowing of jungle cocks is noted by Glasfurd in his accounts of tiger shooting as the invariable preliminary of dawn in the African jungle.

Probably poultry were first domesticated in Burma, says the author. They got to China, according to records, only about 1100 B. C. They reached Greece via Persia before the time of Socrates. In the New Testament the crowing of the cock reproaches Peter for his desertion of the Master.

Breathing Exercises for Adenoids.

An Italian, Doctor Brisotto, contends that the value of breathing exercises both before and after operation for adenoids is not sufficiently recognized. He gives data showing, as tested by the spirometer, the great improvement in respiration which follows a course of special breathing gymnastics. Before the exercises he instills a few drops of mentholated oil into the nostrils. His aim is to draw attention to the necessity of carrying out appropriate exercises if the best results are to be got from the removal of adenoids, especially between the ages of six and twelve years.

DISHES FROM PRESERVED FRUIT

In an emergency, even in season of fruit, one will find it convenient to use some of the fruit on the preserve shelves.

Plum Trifle.—Rub canned plums through a sieve. Add to each cupful of pulp the whites of three eggs beaten stiff and sweetened. Fill the cup two-thirds full of soft custard and heap the fruit meringue on top.

Berry Float.—Heat one quart of milk; add one cupful of sugar and one-eighth of a teaspoonful of salt; when boiling stir in a tablespoonful of cornstarch thinned with a little cold milk; let it boil for five minutes, stirring often, then add the beaten yolks of three eggs; remove from the heat and beat while the mixture cools. Strain the juice from a pint of canned berries and sweeten to taste. Beat the whites of the eggs until stiff; add two to four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar and some of the berry juice—very little to color. Spread the berries on the custard, then heap the meringue on the berries. Serve in glasses if so desired.

Pear Shortcake.—Make a short biscuit dough and roll it into two sheets one-half inch thick. Bake in buttered tins in a hot oven. Cut up canned pears, sweeten and flavor with lemon rind or juice. Spread the shortcake after covering well with butter, making alternate layers of cake and fruit.

Stuffed Fruit.—Place halves of fruit in a pan, fill the centers with orange marmalade, raisins, dates, figs, or chopped nuts. When thoroughly heated remove to a warm serving dish and pour over them a soft custard or melted marshmallows. Peaches, pears or apricots are especially good this way.

Pineapple Mousse.—Take one cupful of sugar or less, the juice of half a lemon, a tablespoonful of gelatin and one cupful of water. Soak the gelatin in cold water for ten minutes, then set in hot water to dissolve. Add the pineapple and lemon juice. Pack in ice until ready to serve. The jelly will harden if placed on ice.

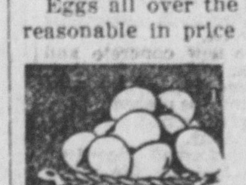
It is nearly an axiom that people will not be better than the books they read.

GOOD EGG DISHES

Eggs all over the country have been reasonable in price and plentiful. As a food eggs are rich in nutriment and if liked may be prepared in many ways, just as eggs. For the member of the family who needs eggs but does not care for them, it is necessary to mask them with other foods. A piece of sponge cake will be eaten by the child who will refuse eggs; as this cake is rich in eggs it is good and wholesome.



Spanish Eggs.—Take one-half can of tomato, pour off nearly all the liquid and heat the tomatoes in a saucepan, seasoning with salt and cayenne, with a little chopped onion, and cook ten minutes. Then break in four eggs and stir with a fork until the eggs are cooked and have the consistency of scrambled eggs. Serve this immediately on rounds of buttered toast.

Supper Dish.—Spread slices of stale bread with butter, place in a baking dish, sprinkle each layer generously with cheese. Beat two eggs, add one cupful of milk, salt and paprika to season and pour over the bread. Bake in a moderate oven until the custard is set. More eggs and milk will be needed for a larger dish.

Macaroni and Eggs.—Cook macaroni of any kind until tender in boiling salted water. Drain and place in a well-buttered baking dish a layer of the cooked macaroni; over this put a layer of sliced hard cooked eggs, using five eggs for a dish serving six. Sprinkle with cheese, add a bit of onion juice or grated onion and then a layer of thick white sauce made by cooking together two tablespoonfuls each of butter and flour and one cupful of rich milk. Repeat with more macaroni, cheese, egg and white sauce and finish the top with buttered crumbs. Bake in a moderate oven until well heated and the crumbs are brown.

Egg Lemonade.—Prepare the lemonade as usual and just before serving beat up one or two eggs, add to the pitcher of lemonade and beat well with an egg beater. This is a refreshing drink and a good way for those who do not like eggs to take them in an active form.

AMBER A FOSSILIZED RESIN

Takes About a Thousand Years for the Material to Become of Commercial Value.

It is said by the orientals that when a tiger dies its soul penetrates into the earth and becomes a stone. This stone is the yellowish-brown bead which we see so often today in the long and short strings of Chinese amber.

Amber is a fossilized vegetable resin found in geological deposits. The heavy drops of resin are brought out on trees by the hot sun. The red fir tree is one instance. These balls of resin drop from the tree and sink into the earth. Each year the resin goes deeper below the surface. After a thousand years have elapsed the resin has become fossilized and is mined in large pieces. The beads for combs, necklaces and bracelets are cut and polished from the mined amber. There are many varieties of amber, such as stone amber, water amber, flower amber, black jet amber and wax amber. The latter is yellow in color and transparent.

The Chinese identify genuine amber by rubbing the stone between the hands. If it is the genuine stone it becomes warm from friction and will attract the mustard seed, or chaff, or dried leaves, just as a magnet attracts iron.

UNDERSTAND TALK OF BIRDS

Arabians Boast That They Can Hold Converse With the Creatures of the Air.

To understand the languages of birds is peculiarly one of the boasted sciences of the Arabians, who pretend that many of their countrymen have been skilled in the knowledge of the language of birds ever since the time of King Solomon.

It is related that Balkis, queen of Sheba, had a bird called Hud-hud—that is, lapwing—which was her trusty messenger to King Solomon. Another story tells that when Athejaj, a famous Arabian commander, and a camel driver were talking together, a bird flew over their heads, making at the same time an unusual sort of noise. The camel driver, hearing it, looked steadfastly on Athejaj, and demanded who he was. Athejaj, not choosing to answer, desired to know the reason of that question. "Because," replied the camel driver, "this bird assured me that a company of people is coming this way, and that you are the chief of them." While he was speaking, Athejaj's attendants arrived.

Pigeons are the favorite bird of the Mohammedans, as, according to their legends, a pigeon built its nest in front of a cave where their prophet was hid, and thus favored his escape from his enemies.

Madstone Treatment a Fallacy.

The belief that a madstone cures hydrophobia is an old tradition with no foundation. The Pasteur treatment administered by a competent physician is the only effective treatment known. For centuries the fallacy of the madstone treatment has existed among men. But, according to physicians, no person treated with a madstone ever recovered if the poison of rabies actually found its way into the blood. Many persons, after having been attacked by a supposedly rabid animal, have recovered upon the application of a madstone to the wound. The madstone's effect, however, was wholly imaginary.

The history of the madstone is as mythical as the efficacy of the stone in the treatment of rabies. It generally is conceded, however, that the "stone" was a part of the practice of medicine in India in the latter half of the Seventeenth century. Later explorations carried it to Europe and thence to America.—Kansas City Star.

Cockfighting Old Sport.

Cockfighting has flourished at one time or another in most countries of the world. The gambling attendant on such encounters led, in 1366, to the first prohibition of cockfighting in England. This prohibition was, in due course rescinded, and Henry VIII built the cockpit in Whitehall, destined to so many vicissitudes. In Peru even church dignitaries have figured among the lovers of "feather." When Sir Clements Markham was investigating Peruvian antiquities in 1853, he enjoyed the hospitality of a bishop who, after dinner, produced a gamecock and fought a match with the Cura Parroco's bird on the dinner table.

On the Night Shift.

Nighthawks and whippoorwills work chiefly at night, when most of the other birds are off duty, and at daybreak their good work is taken up by the swifts and swallows, says Nature Magazine of Washington. These birds are provided with big scapnet mouths, and as they swing through the air over wide areas of country they scoop up almost unbelievable numbers of insects. Six hundred were taken from the stomach of a single Arkansas nighthawk.

Unsafe to Wed in Afternoon.

"Married at high noon." In the old days in England, couples were always married at noon because the bridegroom could not be relied on to stay sober after the hour of one o'clock in the day. That was the origin of the expression. And in those days it was the custom for the newly wedded man to wait on his bride on their wedding day. As she sat at the table, he acted as servant to her. That was the origin of the word "bridegroom."

LAND OF GAUDY UNIFORMS

People of Buenos Aires Certainly Go in Strong for Gilt Braid and "Trimmings."

For dull days the professor and I invented a new game—counting of uniformed men and boys to the block in Buenos Aires during business hours. Even the poor school boys and girls wore white dust coats that hid many deficiencies in wardrobe. Of course, banks had their usual quota of gilt-braided messengers, the postman, bellhops and cable employees were in regulation garb and the department store errand boys and chauffeurs wore the insignia of their respective companies. But, not content with these every other business that could devise an excuse for a doorkeeper or handy man about the shop had at least equipped him with an official cap. Even the peddler had sought to dignify his calling with a uniform. I saw him in front of the banks and in the entrances to the larger buildings, togged out in gilt trimmings and monogrammed headgear, diligently standing there all day long with one lone box of peppermints and accosting each likely customer with his wares.

They were in the same class with bedraggled chaps who brought guide books in the mornings and ran after all the old residents, maps fluttering in the breeze. Others sold poetry along Florida avenue each evening, in competition with a newsboy paid to shout, instead of the headlines, the newest bargains advertised in the inner pages of his papers.—Frances S. Harris in World Traveler Magazine.

FRESH WATER IN THE ARCTIC

Constant Supply Always on Hand If Explorer Knows Just Where to Look for It.

No one doubts that the ocean is salt. It seems reasonable to suppose therefore that the ice of salt water must also be salt, but the inference is only partly correct—a fact that many polar explorers, says Mr. Vilhjalmur Stefansson, have never found out. When sea ice forms it is salty, though perhaps not quite as salty as the water from which it is made. During the winter it probably loses a certain amount of salt, though even in April and May ice formed during the previous October is still too salty for ordinary use in cooking. In June and July, when rains begin and the snow melts, little rivulets, trickling here and there over the ice, form a network of lakes connected by channels of sluggishly-flowing water. Those ponds and streams are not salt, and when they freeze the following year the ice from them will supply the purest water possible both for cooking and for drinking. So the polar explorer who knows of this fact need never fear for his water supply.—Chicago Journal.

Fish Food Prized by Chinese.

The rarest sea food consumed today is probably that furnished by the amphioxus fisheries in China, and there is believed to be no other food in general use whose source of supply is confined to so limited an area. The amphioxus, a tiny marine animal averaging about three grains in weight, has been captured for centuries by the inhabitants of the village of Liuvutien, near Amoy, on a narrow strip of sea bottom less than a mile wide and extending for about six miles along the sea coast.

On this little strip of coast about 200 small boats, each manned by two men, are engaged for from two to four hours during the ebb tide of every calm day from August to April in dredging for amphioxus for the market, the catch per boat averaging about 13 pounds a day. Between six and seven million of the tiny creatures are caught every day.

The inhabitants of the region near the fisheries prize the amphioxus as a dainty.

Pleasant Place to Live!

Earl Russell's memoirs contain a number of sporting reminiscences. In his chapter on yachting he recalls conditions in Marseilles in 1887. "Walking home about midnight we used to walk carefully in the middle of the street, while I kept my revolver handy; this was on the advice of old Pognano (a French engineering friend). He said that in the quarter near the harbor there were a number of people who would cut your throat or knife you for ten francs, and his instructions were quite simple and direct: 'Walk in the middle of the street; if any man sidles up to you or offers to ask a question, bid him keep his distance; if he doesn't, shoot him dead.' I suggested that this method, however desirable, was perhaps a little drastic for civilized countries. 'Oh, no,' cheerfully replied Pognano, 'you just leave your card on the body, and all the police will worry you for is to pay the expense of the funeral.'"

Bernhardt's Eight Girdles.

Sarah Bernhardt had an irresistible fascination for artists, and among those who fell under the spell was Sir Edward Burne-Jones. One of his letters, published in his "Memorials," contains an amusing reference to Bernhardt's Cleopatra. The "serpent of old Nile" would wear a dress in the play, he said, so bejeweled that, in comparison with her, Theodora—another of Bernhardt's parts—"would look like poor Mrs. Booth. Eight girdles she is to wear, and I have just maddened myself thinking how eight girdles could be worn. It wouldn't be fair to call a necklace a girdle or a garter."

For Greater
Public Service

The Hall Mark
PRR
of Service

"Anticipating the greatest volume of freight traffic in their history this year, the railroads have adopted a concerted policy and intensive working program to enable them to meet the growing transportation needs of the country.

"In full realization of necessity for the greatest improvement and expansion possible of the country's transportation facilities to meet the growing demands of commerce, the railroads have authorized, since January 1, 1922, for cars, locomotives, trackage and other facilities, the expenditure of $1,540,000,000, of which $440,000,000 actually was expended during 1922.

"The railroads are raising this enormous amount of additional capital largely through borrowed money on the abiding faith in the fairness of the American people, and reliance on continuance of the policy announced in the Transportation Act of 1920, as a measure of reasonable protection to investment in railroad property.

"From January 1, 1922, to March 15, 1923, the railroads purchased 223,616 new freight cars. Of these, 117,280 have been delivered and put in service. The railroads during that time also purchased 4,219 new locomotives. Of that number 2,106 have already been placed in service.

"The railroads confidently look forward to the successful movement of the largest volume of traffic in the history of the country and pledge their best efforts to that end."

He Left Us Well Provided For

ALL the long weeks he suffered after the accident his hospital expenses were paid and I got $50 a week, every four weeks, in addition because he had that ÆTNA DISABILITY POLICY.

He'd had this policy a number of years. It cost so little we never missed the amount. When he left us, it was costing no more than when he first took it out, and all those years the insurance was increasing rapidly.

Baby and I have several thousand dollars now because of my husband's forethought. I shudder to think of what a frightful struggle life would be had he put it off until too late. The world looks none too kindly upon widowhood.
